DISMISSING PETITION

A line-sharing agreement between an ILEC and a CLEC, the exclusive purpose of which is to give the CLEC access to the high frequency portion of the "loops" the ILEC owns and maintains to connect end use customers' premises to a central office "switch" is not an "interconnection agreement" subject to approval by the Commission under subsection 252(e)(1) of the Federal Telecommunication Act of 1996.

When reading statutes, the Commission must neither add to, nor subtract from, the language expressing legislators' intent. We must give meaning to all words in the statute.
